

PSSC – TEACHERS REPORT

Tuesday, October 11, 2016

MARYANNE LEWELL

Please encourage the members of the PSSC to follow us on twitter at SJHighSchool if they are not already doing so, and also to feel free to tag us in a tweet if they are on twitter and attending a school event - I will happily retweet them! We love our parent tweeters! Our twitter account is an excellent way to keep in touch and to build up the SJHS brand in our community.

ANGIE CAMERON

I don't know if this should come from the teacher rep, but if the PSSC had a Facebook group and/or a Twitter account, they could get information out to the parents, and/or organize events. SRC would be happy to have it as a group associated with Capt'n Greyhound. We can advertise for them and / or show them how to set it up.

TRISH GALLAGHER

The SJHS choir of 122 students will be performing at a fundraising choral concert for the Trinity Anglican Church on Oct 22, 7pm.

Along with the large concert choir, we have three smaller choirs: girls choir, a madrigal choir, and a jazz choir.

KATIE FERRAR

The film club had its first screening in the Mini Theatre on October 4th (Jaws), and will have its next one on October 18th (Star Wars: A New Hope).

TRACY LUTZ

Four classes from SJHS (Ms. Ferrar's AP History 12, Ms. Cameron's Modern History 11, Ms. Hartman's Fine Arts and Ms. Lutz's IB English 10) will be attending free morning productions of The Diary of Anne Frank at the SJTC this week and next.

MARTINA SHANNON

My grade 9's are pairing up with the SJ library and Saint John the Baptist for the "Good Fit Book" event on Oct 20.

My hospitality and tourism class is currently out surveying cruise ship passengers as one of their major projects for the semester.